OUTSTANDING ELEMENTARY TEACHER

from Lynchburg College. Additional graduate work taken at Longwood College and Kent State University.

In December, 1971, she participated in a Comparative Educational Study Tour of the Soviet Union. Spending ten days in Moscow and Leningrad, she had an opportunity to talk with teachers and students while doing an indepth study of educational techniques and procedures. Other activities of this study tour included study of the Russion culture through the Bolshoi Teatre, Dance, Opera and general sight-seeing trips. This trip was sponsored by Kappa Delta Pi and conducted through the graduate program of Kent State University.

Miss White was selected for membership in Kappa Delta Pi (National Honorary Society in Education) and has been a member of the Smithsonian Institute Associates, Beta Sigma Phi, the Lynchburg Arts Center, is an active participant in the Lynchburg Area Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, and is a member of Fort Hill Methodist Church in Lynchburg.

Can You Believe A 21 ¼ Pound Cabbage?

for the Federal government.

In the last 20 years or so, according to a study made by the Tax Foundation, the number of civilians in public jobs rose from 6,400,000 to more than 13,300,000.

A relatively small part of that increase was at the Federal level. It went from 2,100,000 to the current 2,880,000.

The great bulk of the expansion was at the state and local level. These governments have more than 10,450,000 in their employ at the present time, as compared with 4,300,000 in 1950.

The attractiveness of government jobs has been greatly enhanced, it is pointed out, by the sizeable boosts in pay scales and fringe benefits that have gained in recent years, chiefly through union activity.

The Pastor Speaks

YOUR OUTLOOK IS IMPORTANT

Health is one of the most precious possessions which God has given us. We do not often appreciate its value as we should and as a result, the words of the psalmist do not have too much meaning. Psalms 138:7. "Though I walk in the midst of trouble, Thou will revive me."

There are so many blessings in life, such as employment, income, home, and even some luxuries in life.

Illness often has a demoralizing effect upon our mental capacities and upon our thinking. There is a strong tendency to lose our emotional and spiritual equilibrium. In the past we appear to be brave, now in the midst of trouble we appear to be cowards. The sufferings of the present moment seem an eternity. As a result, we are easy targets for our own fears.

It may be that God is teaching us through this experience that we are not "sufficient unto ourselves". Maybe for a while we enjoyed happiness, friends, and good health. We had surrounded ourselves with a sick cloak of self-reliance sufficient for a rainy day. Life seemed to be pretty comfortable.

God teaches us that His grace along is sufficient. II Corinthians 2:9. "My grace alone is sufficient for Thee." He must become the strength of our lives if the weakness which has gripped us is to be removed. Grace sufficient is given to you each day, and each day is sufficient unto itself.

God's Purpose Must Be Fulfilled!

"All things work together for good to them that love Him ..." Romans 8:28. God sometimes permits his child to go through the valley of weeping in order to strengthen his love and faith in Him.

The Sunday School Lesson

Comment on the International Sunday School lesson for October 8, 1972 - Social Change: Urban Culture - Background Scripture: Genesis 11:1-9; Zechariah 8:1-8; John 17: 15-18; Acts 19:23-41; I John 2: 15-17; Revelation 21: 10, 22-27.

Do not be conformed to this world but be transformed by the renewal of your mind, that you may prove what is the will of God, what is good and acceptable and perfect.
Romans 12:2

World War II intensified markedly the trend to the industrialization and urbanization of society, and the trend has since continued rapidly. The exodus of multitudes from city to suburbs, instead of reversing the trend, has extended urbanization. One result of this exodus has been the deterioration of the inner city until the cities are now desperately ill.

Powerful forces generated by an expanding technology have pushed people to the cities and to employment in industry. It would be impossible to stop or reverse these forces if we wanted to. Who would give up today's conveniences? Or, despite inflation, the better pay and the higher incomes? Who wants to live under conditions prevalent as recently as 40 years ago?

It is not necessary to undertake or advocate the futile effort to reverse the trend to urbanization and industrialization to improve the quality of life. It is important to realize that the dispersal of industry into small towns and rural areas, for all its economic advantage, will not of itself raise the level of the quality of life. Indeed it may spread all the evils of urbanization and industrialization.

The basic problem, however, is not so much the urbanization and the industrialization of society as it is the secularization of society which has accompanied these trends. In the more populous communities the individual loses his distinctiveness and appreciation for his personal worth. He is left alone, ignored, to become an anonymous figure in a depersonalized mass of humankind. Thus the individual loses identity, his personality growth is thwarted, he becomes a mechanism instead of a person. As the individual is depersonalized, the community deteriorates. To escape this, many move from the city to the suburbs, but here, too, there is danger to the individual in the powerful pressure upon the suburban dweller to become stereotyped and lose his individuality.

This ought not to be, and it need not be. True, the trends which have made the social order what it is today came upon us before many realized what was taking place. Now radical transformation is necessary, if the quality of life is to be improved. Secularization of society and acceptance of a materialistic philosophy of life by multitudes have brought humanity to an unhappy, unsatisfying condition of life.

Urbanization and industrialization do not have to be secular or materialistic. The city in and of itself need not be evil. Industry need not be a depersonalizing force. Life has a higher goal than the accumulation of goods and things (A person's life does not consist in the abundance of things. Jesus

Con-Terra Woman's Club Meets Oct. 5th

The Con-Terra Woman's Club opened its 47th season with discussions of the organization and the programs listed for the year include social events, speakers on a variety of subjects.

The October 5 meeting at 7:30 p.m. will include a card party for which Mrs. Richard Thompson of Thomas Terrace will be hostess. Assisting her in her duties will be Mrs. Stacey Gray. Mrs. Joyce Matthew, and Mrs. Eddie Gunter, Jr. Members are asked to bring their invited guest to this affair. Mrs. Jerry Kornbau, president will conduct the business meeting.

In November club members will be hearing a talk and having a discussion on "The Role Of The Christian Woman In The Community" by Dr. Mae Kelly of Concord.

The March program will be given by the Junior Girl Scout troop 357. They will tell the club of their earnings and how they spent them from the sale of their Girl Scout cookie drive of last year.

The April program of the season will be a talk and show of slides on International Affairs by Layton Evans. Miss Evans will tell of her experience while being an International Farm Youth Exchange student, who has been living up in the Andes Mountain of Venezuela, South America for six months with families of farm centered life.

Some of the social affairs planned for the year will be a Christmas Party at Sherwill Community Center on December 15. Square dance at Concord school in February. Annual Teachers picnic in May. Covered dish supper and canasta card party, and couples annual banquet in May. At all these social affairs husbands of the members will be invited.

Mrs. Richard Thompson has been appointed chairman of the Old fashioned round and square dance to be held in Concord elementary school auditorium Saturday night. Mrs. Clayton Stanley and Mrs. Eddie Gunter, Jr. are also members of the dance committee.

Mrs. Melvin Giles is chairman of the Fine Arts and Craft contest to be held the first Thursday in the month of February. The contest is to be freely opened for everyone in the community. Mrs. Jerry Kornbau and Mrs. Stacey Gray will serve on this committee.

Workshop classes on parliamentary procedure will be held in the evening of the 12 and 19 of October. All members are urged to attend this workshop for learning in leadership development.

The club is a member of the General Federation of Woman's Clubs and the Virginia Federation of Women's Club which tries to stress the importance of leadership growing. Leaders are made not born is one of their federations slogans.

Mrs. Charles Graf is still accepting children in her kindergarten class. If interested call 993-2122.

Reels In Two Pound Blue Gill

L. M. Thomas, pictured above, reeled in this two pound blue-gill from a local farm pond recently. According to all reports, it is one of the largest blue-gills that has ever been caught in this area.

Jack Mayberry of Appomattox did the excellent mounting job.

L. M. is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Murrel Thomas, of Route 3, Appomattox.
